SEALED BEAM UNITS

Why should your customers be satisfied with less when the Guide Sealed Beam offers so much?

1. Guide Sealed Beam units are engineered and built by the largest manufacturer of automotive lamp equipment in the world—the Guide Lamp Division of General Motors Corporation. There are more Guide Lamps on the road than any other make.
2. The Guide unit consists of an approved lens, METAL reflector and self contained bulb, tightly sealed as a unit against dirt, moisture and traffic film.
3. The highly polished metal reflector stays bright for the life of the unit, providing full efficiency for safe driving.
4. The reflector is drawn to extremely close limits, resulting in maximum accuracy and efficiency of the light beam. It will not break under the most severe conditions encountered on trucks, buses or tractors.
5. The self contained bulb continues to burn even though the lens is cracked or broken. Light is always provided for completing the trip—a Super Safety feature in helping to avoid costly accidents.
6. Will service any headlamp, spotlamp, fog lamp or driving lamp originally equipped with a sealed unit of the same size.

SPOTLAMPS

With the data listed on the opposite page any Guide 5" Sealed Unit Spotlamp may be identified and the correct service parts secured. Lamp number as shown on chart is number of lamp only. Lamp only is not available for service, and should not be confused with the complete package number. For new lamp, complete accessory package must be ordered.

LAMP & PARTS IDENTIFICATION

1. Remove lamp from tube—Caution—do not remove tube from housing at lamp end.
2. Remove Rack from tube.
3. Measure Rack Length by measuring distance from center tooth at one end to center tooth at opposite end of either side of rack.

4. Determine degree of angle of handle by holding tube with pin hole at lamp end in vertical position and with lamp end at farthest point from body of person checking. If handle is at an angle—direction of angle is to the right for left-hand mounting and to the left for right-hand mounting. When handle is vertical—lamp is for either left or right-hand mounting.

5. Determine color of handle.
6. Ascertain whether or not lamp has mirror.
7. By matching Rack Length, degree of angle of handle, handle color, whether left or right hand when mounting is not vertical, and whether or not lamp has a mirror with data on chart, lamp number can be determined.
8. Popular service parts peculiar to individual lamps are listed on chart for each lamp, following lamp number.
9. For parts common to all 5" Sealed Unit Guide Spotlamps see separate listing.

On Sealed Unit type Spotlamps, Lens, Bulb and Reflector are part of Sealed Unit.
